I'm travelling a lot over the next week, hoping to pick up some foodie inspiration along the way. Which means writing time is a bit limited.

But as we're coming into the Christmas season people are going to be after more gift advice than ever, then I thought I would do some very short picks for each day I'm gone, just on what I've spotted but not yet got round to writing about in detail.

Here goes!

For someone who is serious about their chocolate, or just serious about eating it, then I would go for this delicious Chocolate by Trish chocolate making kit, from Trish Deseine. It includes a specially created English version of one her beautiful chocolate recipe books, Atelier Chocolat, comes with some great moulds and everything you need to get going.
